

The importance of headings

On Wednesday morning at 9:45 AM, Adan Soto and I met to speak about the recent article we read "11 Essential Ingredients Every Blog Post Needs". In our discussion we came to the conclusion that one of the most important parts of a blog is the header. We decided this because according to Soto "it gives the blog more flavor".

After speaking about this I agreed with him and proceeded to show him my own personal photography blog. I showed him this because the header of my blog explains a lot about who I am as an individual as well as the blog's overall "feel". If any of you would like to take a look at my blog I welcome you to do so!

<http://passionworldwide.tumblr.com>