

Classes

I don't know about you but when I miss classes and you have to take notes, I would rather not take notes from other people. I don't know what it is but having to copy others notes is a bit sketch to me because I'm not sure if they got the really important information down. My note taking is like paragraphs and lists, lists are for when others are talking and the paragraph is when someone has a lot to say.

How do you take notes and are you the same way as me when missing a course?
